

About the Trainer

Frank Campbell, Ph.D., LCSW, C.T.

Dr. Campbell is the former Executive Director of the Baton Rouge Crisis intervention Center and the Crisis Center Foundation in Louisiana, USA. He is currently Senior Consultant for Campbell and Associates Consulting where he consults with communities on Forensic Suicidology cases. It was due to his more than twenty years of working with those bereaved by suicide that he introduced his Active Postvention Model (APM) most commonly known as the LOSS Team (Local Outreach to Survivors of Suicide). His work with survivors and victims of trauma has been featured in three Discovery Channel documentaries. The APM concept involves a team of first responders who go to the scene of a suicide and provide support and referral for those bereaved by the suicide. The goal has been to shorten the elapsed time between the death and survivors finding the help they feel will help them cope with this devastating loss. The Active Postvention Model and has shown to have a positive impact on both the team members (most often bereaved individuals who have gotten help and now provide the installation of hope to the newly bereaved) as well as the newly bereaved. The model has now been replicated in countries as diverse as Australia, Singapore, Northern Ireland, Canada and America.

Dr. Campbell is a past president of The American Association of Suicidology (AAS) and has received the Roger J. Tierney award for service and the Louis I Dublin Award in 2010 for his contributions to the field of Suicidology. Campbell was also selected by the International Association of Suicide Prevention (IASP) to receive the Dr. Norman Farberow award for his international contributions on behalf of those bereaved by suicide. He was Social Worker of the year in Louisiana and the first John W. Barton Fellow selected in his hometown of Baton Rouge, Louisiana, USA.

Sudden and Traumatic Death: What Every Community Needs to Know

Suicide remains the most common sudden and traumatic loss that communities experience annually. It is through continuing commitment and self-improvement that a community can begin to address the far-reaching impact of suicide on survivors, families, and the community as a whole. Through lecture, power point, and guided group discussion and activities, Dr. Frank Campbell will teach participants the basics of Crisis Theory, the impact of suicide and traumatic death on individuals, families, and communities, and how substance abuse may be impacting a person in crisis and/or the grief process. Further, Dr. Campbell will provide participants with information on local and statewide efforts to prevent suicide and intervene effectively for survivors of suicide and traumatic death.

At the end of this workshop, participants will be able to...

- Identify first responder coping mechanisms, understand basic Crisis Theory, survivors of suicide grief process, and identify prolonged and complicated grief
- Gain information about available community involvement, local efforts and statewide support from the Ohio Suicide Prevention Foundation, and information about the local Suicide Prevention Coalition
- Become more aware of the developmental impact of traumatic loss, the impact of family dynamics in complex and complicated grief, and the long-term consequences for children including future risks with regard to suicide
- Understand the most current data for the U.S. and Ohio to better equip participants for the battle against suicide, and participant's role within a community that cares
