Learning Objectives (At least two but no more than three learning objectives are required. There is a limit of 250 characters for each learning objective.) Strong Learning Objectives have three distinguishing characteristics: They are (1) observable, (2) measurable, (3) must match the content of your proposal as described in your title, description, and content plan.

Description (limited to 1000 characters)

The description must provide details and be reflective of the title and content. A session description should get the reader to say, "Hmm, that sounds interesting." Choose the right words to accurately describe the session, pull readers in and get them to commit to attending the session, and to see the benefits of how the presentation will increase their skills and knowledge. This description is what attendees will see in the conference program book.

Content Plan

The content plan should include: details on the content that will be provided and sufficient information to determine how the session contributes to best practice and advances the field of behavioral health prevention and early intervention. (Content plans are limited to 1000 characters maximum).
