- 2.8% of Ohioans at some level of risk for problem gambling; about 250,000 people
- 18-25 yr. old White males at highest risk
- African-American males at higher risk ages 25-64 compared to White males
- African-American females at higher risk ages 18-64 compared to White females
- Older adults 65+ at lowest risk

RESEARCH for 2015 & Beyond

College Student Gambling Targeted Response Initiative (TRI)

- 396 college students (18-25 years old) from Cincinnati, Cleveland, Columbus and Toledo
- 73.2% of students reported participation in at least one type of gambling during past 12 months
- Lottery, sports betting (e.g. March madness) and casino gambling were the top three reported gambling types (49%, 24.2% & 24% respectively)
- 26% total students screened positive for some level of risk for problem gambling

RESEARCH for 2015 & Beyond

Problem Gambling Workforce Capacity Survey

- 35% of practitioners screen for gambling disorders.
- In the past year for gambling diagnosis: 80 % reported treating 10 or fewer clients; 29% reported no patients; and only 4% reported seeing more than 20 patients for gambling addiction.
- 357 participants reported offering treatment to persons with gambling disorder.
- 37% reported attending gambling addiction training, and 40% plan to attend training in the next 6 months.

RESEARCH for 2015 & Beyond

Statewide Gambling Survey - Round Two

- The second statewide survey will be fielded in SFY 16, with enough responses for county board-level analysis.
- Analysis will be available in SFY 17.

Statewide Youth Gambling Survey

- Survey of 14-18 year olds will launch in SFY 16 and will cover risk behaviors such as gambling, substance abuse, seatbelt use, etc.
- $60,000 from Gambling funds and remaining from Gov. John Kasich's Mid-Biennium Review budget.

CONCLUSION

- Further research and data gathering is confirming the 2012 Ohio Gambling Survey findings.
- Behavioral health clients and young adults are at highest risk for problem gambling.
- Training in prevention and treatment of problem gambling is providing a foundation for a growing system of care.
