What is Access to Recovery?

Access to Recovery (ATR) is a four year competitive $13,119,440 grant program awarded to the Ohio Department of Alcohol and Drug Addiction Services and funded by the federal Substance Abuse and Mental Health Services Administration, Center for Substance Abuse Treatment. This initiative provides vouchers to a projected 8,678 adult and 600 adolescent clients for the purchase of drug/alcohol treatment and recovery support services from potentially 140 providers.* The program emphasizes:

Consumer Choice

The process of recovery is a personal one. Achieving recovery can take many pathways. With a voucher, people in need of addiction treatment and recovery support will be able to choose programs and providers that will help them most. Increased choice protects individuals and encourages quality.

Successful Outcomes

Success will be measured by outcomes, principally abstinence from drugs and alcohol, and includes attainment of employment or enrollment in school, no involvement with the criminal justice system, stable housing, social support, access to care, and retention in services.

Increased Capacity

Access to Recovery increases the number and types of clinical treatment and recovery support service providers (including faith and community-based organizations) eligible to receive federal funding and expands the array of services available, including residential and outpatient treatment modalities, peer support, relapse prevention, care coordination and other recovery support services.

 At the time of this printing, 100 providers are offering services.*
